Why "experiment100b?"

Based on a rough calculation, around 100-billion humans have been born (since the first homo sapiens sapiens of whom we're aware) on this planet.

As an infinite meta-conscious whole, we are ever at an evolutionary edge, so that our finite lives are, to a certain degree, experiments.

As we undertake “life” – make our way – learn how to live, we constantly adjust our own active experiments to see what works.

We share the results of this experimentation with our meta-conscious kin in various ways – (through energy, in the form of words, sounds, images, etc.) – ever elucidating hints of the nature of our shared consciousness - that larger network of awareness.

This website exists for sharing visual traces of this experimentation (via the particular and universal lens of experiment100b), as aware awareness - infinite potential - wonder-of-being, which, when embodied, manifests as an animation of its truth - an experience of LOVE.
